

DANIEL GUSTAV CRAMER & HARIS EPAMINONDA

BolteLang at NADA Art Fair 2008

Throughout its first year BolteLang has presented two-artist exhibitions. The space at NADA Art Fair is treated as an extension of the Zurich gallery, that is to say, an opportunity to present a curated exhibition with two artists, which focuses on the potential and possibilities of collaboration. In this instance BolteLang invited the artists Daniel Gustav Cramer (1975, Germany) and Haris Epimanonda (1980, Cyprus), who are working collaboratively on a project called The Infinite Library.

The Infinite Library was founded in 2007. It is primarily an expanding archive of books. Each book object is created out of pages out of one or more found books and bound anew. Several hypothetical propositions applied to the project are kept as text pieces, diagrams, drawings and sketches. The project expands into the realm of film, photography and installation.
